BANKERS OPPOSE BRYAN SCHEME OF BANK GUARANTEE

"Superficially Pleasing, But Fallacious and Sophistical"
They Say.

Tendency to Lower Standard of Banking Ability.

CONSERVATISM IS RULING

Denver, Oct. 2.—The convention of the American Bankers' association came to an end with the election of George M. Reynolds, of Chicago, president. The convention placed itself squarely on record as against both propositions to guarantee bank deposits and to establish postal savings banks. Addresses were made on both subjects during the day.

Guarantee of Deposits.
William C. Cornwell, of J. S. Hache & Co., New York, spoke on the proposed government guarantee of deposits, concluding as follows:

The result thus far under the old system the losses have been infinitesimal. It is planned by the government guarantee of deposits to get rid of this small loss. But it would be the opening of the dam. The life of a banker is a life of conflict against loss. All the qualities which have brought losses conservatively for 43 years would be rendered objectionable as far as deposits are concerned. With this great incentive for conservative ability removed, these facilities would be reason of uselessness become largely absolute. The notations and recklessness would rush in to reap the benefits of employment of depositors' money, without experience and ability to work out success. Even any one doubt that the rational loss would be greatly increased? It is argued that self-interest would deter the new bankers from reckless use of the funds, but the self-interest of reckless financiers has never yet deterred them from risking their own and other people's money in uncertain, highly speculative or unquestionable ventures.

The reward of conservative conduct in banking heretofore has been the confidence of depositors. The elimination on the part of the depositor has placed a premium on character, ability and upright conduct in banking. This weight of public opinion has been of pronounced value in sifting out the unfit and building up a body of careful able bank officers to whom the enormous deposit funds of the country may be safely entrusted. Celebrate Burning of Tea.

Greenwich, N. J., Oct. 2.—A monument commemorating the burning of a consignment of tea by citizens of this place during the exciting days prior to the actual outbreak of the American revolution was unveiled here today with elaborate patriotic exercises. The greatest crowd that ever gathered in Greenwich witnessed the event. The burning of the tea occurred after the Boston tea party.

Maxon Wins Lawsuit

In a decision handed down by the court of appeals today, affirming the judgment of Judge Reed, of the McCracken circuit court in the case of Harrows vs. Maxon, one of the most interesting cases to lawyers that has been tried out in some time was closed.

The suit was brought by Dr. Harrows, of Maxon Mills, against O. O. Maxon to recover several hundred dollars due for medical services. The plaintiff sought to make the home-stand of Maxon subject to the debt because the deed to the property was given after the debt had been created. The defense succeeded in showing that Morris Maxon, father of the defendant, had never deeded the property to his son, he had given it to him 15 years before his death and allowed him to occupy it. When the older Maxon died the other heirs recognized the gift of the father and deeded the property to the defendant.

Judge Reed held that the title was with Maxon before the debt was created and not subject to the debt. His decision was affirmed.

Ambassadorial Feud

London, Oct.—It is reported there is a serious break between Ambassador Reid and Henry White, American ambassador to Paris. It is understood White wants Reid's job to round out his distinguished diplomatic career. Reid desires to hold, and fears a change with the new administration. Whenever White visits the London embassy he inquires about office details. Reid resents this and an open break is feared.

FROST LAST NIGHT.

"The frost was on the jump-kick" in McCracken county last night for the first time this season and tender vegetation was killed and the harder forage crops damaged. Farmers coming into the city this morning said that house tops and fences were white with the frost this morning and the night was decidedly the coldest of the season.

HAINS BROTHERS' TRIALS WILL BE HELD SEPARATELY

New York, Oct. 2.—Prosecutor Parrin announced that he will try Peter and Jenkins Hains separately for the Annals murder. He will ask for separate indictments and try Jenkins first on the charge of accessory before the fact.

Ten Killed; Twenty Hurt.
Spencer, N. C., Oct. 2.—A powder house blew up last night, killing ten persons and injuring twenty.

Illinois Suffragists.
Springfield, Ill., Oct. 2.—The annual convention of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association was held at the state fair grounds. Mrs. Ella H. Stewart, of Chicago, was elected president.

Ends Service of Fifty Years.
Boone, Ia., Oct. 2.—Conductor Free L. Paine, for half a century one of the most prominent railroad men in the west, was pensioned today by the Northwestern company. Mr. Paine was conductor on the train which Kate Shelly, Iowa's heroine, saved in 1882 in the terrible flood at Boone.

Wholesale Emigration Graft.
San Francisco, Oct. 2.—A complete shift to the immigration bureau resulted in the discovery of wholesale corruption. Hundreds of Chinese were smuggled from Mexico. Many government officials, it is alleged, are involved. A federal grand jury is preparing an investigation. It is alleged a regular scale of bribes for smuggling existed. They got $275 for bringing them to Los Angeles and $500 for shipping them to eastern and southern states.

Odell Denies Aiding Trust.
Newbury, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Former Governor Odell replied to the story that he got President Roosevelt to grant a franchise for the Pacific Oil company to mine T. N. Barnard; by saying he never had any dealings with the person named. He brands the whole article, so far as it related to him, as absolutely false and untrue. In order to make the denial stronger he has had prepared an affidavit.

Ford's Funeral

Henson, Ky., Oct. 2.—(Special.)—Postmaster J. H. Ford, who committed suicide yesterday, was buried this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The funeral was quiet.

Darnell Infant

The three months old infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Darnell, of 1009 Lloyd street, died this afternoon at 1 o'clock. The infant had been ill ever since birth. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The burial will be in Oak Grove cemetery. Mr. Darnell is a stone cutter.

FIRST FOOTBALL GAME OF SEASON AT METROPOLIS

Tomorrow the High school football squad will have the first battle on the gridiron this season. The season will begin with Metropolis High school as an opponent on the field of the Little Illinois city. Coach W. A. Evans, and Captain William Williams are confident of winning the opener as practically all of the boys have recovered from the bruises of the first practice. The following men will go: Coach Evans, Captain Williams, Manager George Scott and Joe Harsh, John Kille, Henry Ogilvie, Clarence Verbruggen, Det. Hays, Cloud Eppert, John Hinkle, Frank Luffen, George Kirkland, Robert Marcer, George Hurton and George Katterjohn. The boys will leave on the steamer George Cowling at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, and return on the steamer Chattanooga tomorrow night.

Hazers and Black Hand

POLICE BELIEVE SMITH IS THROWN INTO FREIGHT CAR

Bound and Gagged by College Mates and Car is Hauled Away by Train—Missing Student's Brother Warned to Stop Search.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 2.—(Special.)—Police insist they have evidence that W. R. Smith, the State University student, who disappeared last Tuesday, was bound and gagged by hazers and thrown into a freight car which later was taken away in a train. Black hand letters have been received by the boy's brother, warning him to stop the search.

AGAIN ENTERS DENIALS.

Says Law Will Be Invoked If He Has Done Wrong.

Cincinnati, Oct. 2.—That the law will be invoked against him if he has done any wrong is the conclusion of the statement by United States Senator Foraker. Before making this statement he sums up the various charges that have been made and discusses briefly the legal ethics to govern for various claims. The statement admits his employment by the Standard Oil company, but denies that the employment interfered or influenced in any manner his duties as senator. He names several corporations for which he at various times acted as counsel and which he says had no relation whatever with his political life. He says it would be just as consistent to attack him for these services as to criticize his acceptance of an attorney for the Standard Oil company before he entered the senate.

WHISKER HARVEST IN MECHANICSBURG LACKS GLEANERS

Pointing to two sad instances of the result of carrying a pistol concealed, Police Judge D. A. Cross fined Jim Hall a big half-breed Indian, $100 and sent him to the county jail for carrying a pistol concealed and an additional fine of $50 and costs for flourishing the weapon. Monday afternoon Hall, who is a barber in Mechanicsburg because W. L. Marble, a colored bus driver, refused to take a drink with him in Jim Hall's saloon, pulled his pistol and flourished it. Further threatening, he made Marble take him in his back, and at 8th and Norton streets Hall is alleged to have cursed loudly. Patrolman Hurley heard the curses, and after a hasty disarm the man and released him.

On the stand Hall said he had been in Paducah over four months and has been drunk but twice. He said his father was white and his mother was a member of the Cherokee tribe of Indians. He came to Paducah from New York. He is tall and heavily built, with a light copper colored skin and long black hair. Not denying that he had the pistol, Judge James Campbell, for the defense, made the unique defense that Hall was the only barber in Mechanicsburg and unless he was released with a nominal fine that the men of Mechanicsburg would have to go unserved Sunday because of the absent barber.

Cardonald Couple Wed Here.

H. B. Raggsdale, a prominent business man of Cardonald, Ill., and Mrs. R. A. Itambo, an attractive lady of that place, were married this morning by Magistrate J. J. Hefsch. They left for home on the 9:30 o'clock train.

Riverside Report

The report for the month of September for Riverside hospital was completed this morning and it is: Patients received—24; private patients received during the month—20; city patients treated—32; private patients treated—29; births, city patients—1; deaths, city patients—1; deaths, private patients—3; city patients October 1—5; private patients October 1—5.

Eighth District Wants Roads.

At a meeting of the citizens of the Eighth magisterial district of McCracken county held at Woodville last night it was unanimously decided to co-operate with the fiscal court in the building and graveling of the Woodville road from Maxons to the county line. Work will begin on the road at once and the job will be rushed to completion. Judge Lightfoot was present at the meeting and explained the plan of the fiscal court to co-operate with citizens to build the road. Supervisor Bert Johnson also attended the meeting. A large crowd was present at the meeting and enthusiastic talks were made.

BOVINE TUBERCULOSIS IS IN EVIDENCE IN CHILD INOCULATED AT WASHINGTON

Dr. Detre Thinks That Proves His Theory That Humans May "Catch" Disease From Cows.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The experiment of inoculating children with tuberculosis showed one patient has the bovine type. Dr. Detre claims that proves that humans contract the disease from animals. The question divides the congress. Dr. Koch, the eminent German, denies the transmissibility of bovine tuberculosis to humans. A majority opposes him and wants the congress to make a declaration on the subject.

Elkins Investment in Rome?
Rome, Oct. 2.—Palazzo Marcellini, one of the finest buildings in Rome has been purchased for an unknown person, who is believed to be the duke of the Abruzzi or a wealthy relative of the Elkins family.

President Puffinham Silent.
New York, Oct. 2.—President Puffinham, of the National League of Baseball clubs, returned to New York today, and announced that he has reviewed all the evidence about the protested New York-Chicago game of last week. Empire Enquirer called on Mr. Puffinham in the afternoon and had a brief talk with him, after which Secretary Heyder said that Mr. Puffinham would not give a decision on the case at present. Mr. Puffinham had nothing to say on the subject today.

EIGHT FIREMEN FALL WHEN BUILDING COLLAPSED.

Youngstown, O., Oct. 2.—Fire last night destroyed Knox's Five and Ten Cent store. Eight firemen were carried down when the building collapsed. The missing are: Fire Chief Thomas Reilly, Captain Charles Vaughn, Fireman Edward Sweeney, Fireman injured: Chief of Police William Lawler. Five were seriously injured and five others slightly hurt.

ATLANTIC FLEET REACHES MANILA ON LONG VOYAGE

Manila, Oct. 2.—The Atlantic fleet was reported 50 miles off the mouth of the harbor at 8 o'clock this morning and is expected to pass in by Corregidor Island at about 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. There will be no formalities in the way of a reception attempted today outside of the demonstrations of steamers and harbor craft which will sail about the fleet as it lies at anchor and tonight the ships will be illuminated. Governor General Smith will pay an official call to Admiral Sperry after the water parade tomorrow is over.

FAILING TO KILL HIMSELF WITH MORPHINE, ARMSTRONG SLASHES THROAT WITH KNIFE

Fourth Attempt to Commit Suicide Made by Desperate Man at His Home This Morning.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL CAR INSPECTOR SWALLOWED OVERDOSE AND IT MADE HIM SEVERELY SICK

Jabs Fingers in Wound in Throat and Tears at Veins in Endeavor to Reach His Jugular—Taken to I. C. Hospital.

After he had failed to commit suicide by taking two large doses of morphine and throwing himself on the railroad track between two freight cars, Jackson D. Armstrong, 40 years old, of 1230 Trimble street, was found this morning in his coal shed with his throat cut and his head gashed. No reason is given for the suicide except the family says he has been peculiarly for several weeks, and relatives believe that he was mentally unbalanced. When found he was unconscious, but the wounds were dressed. He is dying at the hospital.

For several days Mr. Armstrong worked extra hours, and had lost much sleep. He was a car inspector and foreman of the car repairing crew in the river yards of the Illinois Central. He attended the circus with his family Wednesday night, as was his custom. Breakfast was sent to him, and he did not return for dinner or supper. An inquiry was begun for his whereabouts at dark.

About 8 o'clock last night Patrolman E. E. Holt, a special policeman of the Illinois Central railroad, found Armstrong unconscious on a spur track back of a warehouse near Sixth and Trimble streets. His body was between two freight cars, and in a few minutes he would have been killed as a switch engine was switching the cars. He was rushed home, and Dr. J. T. Reddick and Dr. J. D. Robertson gave him emetics, and about midnight he was aroused. He said he went to a drug store and bought the morphine, telling the pharmacist that he wanted to take a little to relieve pains in the head. He bought a bottle of the poison, and shortly before noon took a large dose. Being ignorant of the time required for the poison to take hold of his system, Armstrong became impatient, and shortly swallowed another large dose.

Before he became unconscious he laid down on the track with the intention of making death certain if the poison did not act. Physicians say he did not die because he took so much of the poison that he became violently ill at the stomach and the effect was counteracted. At midnight he arose, undressed and after talking with relatives returned to bed.

Uses Butcher Knife.
This morning he awoke and ate breakfast as usual. About 8 o'clock his wife was dressing the younger children and he went into the dining room. His eldest daughter was on the back porch, arranging the dishes.

COTTON GINNED EXCEEDS 1907 BY MILLION BALES

Washington, Oct. 2.—The census bureau announced that 2,592,688 bales of cotton were ginned until September 25, as compared with 1,532,602 last year.

The crop report for September 25 estimates the average condition of cotton at 69.7, compared with 74.7 August 25.

LAST TESTIMONY IN STANDARD OIL CASE JANUARY 1

St. Louis, Oct. 2.—Federal Judge Hook ordered January 1 as the time for hearing the final testimony in the government suit to dissolve the Standard Oil company, on the ground that it is a combination in restraint of trade. It began in November, 1906. Testimony was heard in various cities. A decision is expected early next year.

Wed at Metropolis
Metropolis, Ill., Oct. 2.—(Special.)—Fred H. Bryant, 23 years old, and Minnie B. Jeffords, 18 years old, both of Paducah, were married this afternoon at 1 o'clock by Magistrate Lightfoot. The young couple left this afternoon on the steamer Cowling for Paducah. Bryant is a caulker and is employed at the marine ways. He resides at 630 Ellsworth street. The bride resides at 618 Willis street and is the daughter of Mrs. Laura Jeffords.

TO ISSUE PARDONS

ONLY AFTER DUE NOTICE HAS BEEN GIVEN.

Governor Wilson Announces That Rules Have Been Issued Which Will Be Observed.

No pardon will be granted by Governor Wilson in the future without giving due notice to all persons interested and a chance to protest, should anyone desire to protest. The governor has formulated certain rules which will be adhered to closely for the presentation of applications for pardons, and these rules, the governor believes, will greatly aid him in arriving at a correct conclusion regarding the merit of each case. Notice must be given in the county where the crime was committed that application will be made to the governor for a pardon. This notice must be posted at the court house door or printed in a paper having general circulation. In this way all those interested in the case can get notice of the application for a pardon.

HARD TIMES FOR LAW VIOLATORS

Department Shows What Has Been Accomplished

Large Amounts in Fines Collected From Law-Defying Corporations.

THE PROSECUTIONS IN DETAIL.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The department of justice issued a revised statement giving in pamphlet form summaries of the record to date of all civil and criminal cases instituted by the United States under the Sherman anti-trust law of July 2, 1890, and the act to regulate commerce, approved February 4, 1887, as amended, including the Elkins act.

The statement gives the following summaries of cases under the anti-trust laws:

Four bills in equity and three indictments under President Harrison's administration from 1889 to 1893; four bills in equity, two informations and two indictments under President Cleveland's second administration from 1893 to 1897; three bills in equity under President McKinley's administration from 1897 to September 14, 1901, and eighteen bills in equity and one forfeiture proceeding in civil cases and twenty-five criminal indictments and two proceedings in contempt in criminal cases under President Roosevelt's administration from September 14, 1901, to date. The fines imposed in these cases amounted to $147,000.

Cleveland's Administration.

The summary of cases under the interstate commerce act shows one indictment during President Cleveland's first term, and thirty-five indictments, five convictions, eighteen nolle prossed cases, seven acquittals, one dismissed and four acquittals under President Harrison's administration.

Under President Cleveland's second term there were thirteen indictments, which resulted in nine convictions, one dismissal, eight nolle prossed, three quashed and one acquittal; seventeen petitions to enforce orders of commission and one petition to restrain defendants from making discriminatory rates; one prosecution for contempt, and four petitions for mandamus to compel filing of annual reports.

Under President McKinley's administration there were twenty-two indictments, five petitions to enforce orders of commission and one petition to declare pooling combination illegal. These indictments resulted in five convictions, one acquittal, four nolle prossed and twelve not prosecuted.

Under Roosevelt.

Under President Roosevelt's administration it is shown that there have been 157 indictments, forty-eight convictions, two acquittals, nine nolle prossed, five demurrers sustained, four dismissed, one quashed and eighty-eight pending. The amount of fines imposed was $1,113,325.

Following are the details of the results of the 157 criminal indictments:

Fifty-seven indictments for receiving rebates; twenty-seven convictions; fines imposed aggregating $314,675; one nolle prossed, one acquittal, one dismissed, one quashed, two demurrers sustained, thirty-one pending.

Sixty-eight indictments for granting rebates; eighteen convictions; fines imposed aggregating $743,000; two dismissed, seven nolle prossed, one demurrer sustained, forty pending.

Six indictments for conspiracy to obtain rebates; four convictions; one case, two defendants fined $1,025 each; one case, defendants fined in the aggregate of $25,000; one case, defendant fined $7,000, the other $4,000; one case, two defendants fined $1,000 each; total fines imposed $40,000; one nolle prossed; one acquittal.

One indictment for conspiracy to grant rebates; demurrer filed and sustained.

Other Indictments.

Two indictments for failure to file schedules; conviction, fined $15,000; one pending.

Twelve indictments for charging less than filed rate; twelve pending.

One indictment for discrimination in distribution of cars; demurrer filed and sustained.

One indictment charging conspiracy to violate interstate commerce laws; dismissed.

Four indictments for false swearing; three convictions, fines imposed aggregating $400; one pending.

Three indictments for misuse of free pass; two convictions; fines imposed aggregating $200; one pending.

One indictment for departure from published tariff; one pending.

One indictment for conspiring to procure transportation; one pending.

What He Would Keep.

When the late Francis Coppin was elected to the academy, he told his friend, Theodore de Banville, that he wished he were in too. Banville declined to canvass.

"Suppose your nomination were brought to you one fine morning on a silver salver."

"I don't know what I should do with the nomination," said Banville, "but I should certainly keep the salver."

La France SHOE for WOMEN

If you will come in and ask to try on La France shoes you will be an unusual case if you don't make some flattering exclamation as to their comfort as soon as you feel them on your feet.

Then you will realize that never before have you tried on a shoe which made you feel look so shapely, neat and dainty. And if you buy the shoes—as we believe you will when you see them—you will in the course of time discover that these qualities of comfort and fit stay with the shoe as long as it lasts, and that it lasts longer than any shoe you ever bought for the money.

There are reasons for this—good reasons—materials, careful workmanship, patient attention to those little details which alone can make a shoe both beautiful to look at and comfortable to wear. But the shoes themselves speak louder than anything we can say in our advertising—come and see them.

La France is a French Made shoe which will particularly interest you. It is a really remarkable feature in the sole of the shoe which makes it wonderfully comfortable, especially when standing or walking.

Mayfield, Ky., Oct. 2.—T. J. Cooper, of this city, has returned home from Calloway county, where he went to organize lodges of the Modern Woodmen of America. At Hazel he posted notices Wednesday. Thursday he received an alleged warning not to attempt the organization of the new lodge or he would suffer. He obeyed the edict and went to New Providence, where he organized a lodge. The alleged warning is said to have stated that there was already an insurance lodge at Hazel and two of them could not prosper.

BASEBALL NEWS

Last Game of Season.

Rooters will be out Sunday for one of the last baseball games of the season, as the lads in the mole skins have about taken all the honors from the ball tossers. Sunday the Elks baseball team will play a benefit game with the strong Knights of Columbus team, and the largest crowd of the season will be out to get a farewell glimpse of the national game. The Elks' lodge will support the team to a man as the team has a splendid record for the first season. Thirteen games have been played this season and four have been lost, a record any team would be proud of. Nine of the games have been with brother Elks, and but one of these series was lost. Four games were played with outside teams, and but two lost. Most of the games lost were early in the season, as the past two months the team has made a clean sweep.

Robertson, the crack shortstop of the Elks, will be behind the bat for novelty, and Goodman, the regular hit artist, will cover second station. Harringer from second will be shifted to short. The Knights of Columbus has not announced its players, but a strong line-up will be presented. Sutton will twirl the twisters for the Elks. The Elks will lineup: Robertson, c; Sutton, p; Lloyd, 1b; Goodman, 2b; Fredericks, 3b; Harringer, ss; Wolf, lf; Williams, cf; Bear, rf.

At Philadelphia, Oct. 2.—Corridon was knocked out of the box in the first inning. In the second game Covaleski held New York to four hits.

HASKELL MAY SUE HEARST.

Lawyers Preparing to File Suit in Missouri Courts.

Guthrie, Okla., Oct. 1.—Attorneys representing Gov. C. N. Haskell in the suit which he intends to file in Missouri against W. R. Hearst, as a result of charges made against the character of the Oklahoma governor, left for Kansas City last night. H. E. Strull, of Liberty, Mo., who assisted the governor in drawing up the papers, is scheduled to arrive in Kansas City early tomorrow morning.

At a conference of the attorneys in the case in Kansas City the final details of the suit will be arranged and the action will be started at once. Neither Governor Haskell nor Mr. Strull would make any official statement as to the nature of the suit or as to the place where it will be filed, stating that these matters would not be fully decided until after the conference. The governor did not reveal the names of the other attorneys in the case.

BRYAN INSENSED AT TAFT'S STAND

Criticises Opponent For Ideas
as to Contributions.

Says Common Sense Shows Folly of Publishing Expenditures Instead of Donations.

LIKENS THEM TO MORTGAGES

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 2.—"Declaring that every disinterested voter knows that large contributions have been used to secure mortgages upon officials," Bryan last night issued at Fairview a statement criticising the adoption by Taft, his Republican opponent for the presidency, of President Roosevelt's announced views on the subject of publicity of campaign contributions.

Taft, says Bryan, "makes the same charges the president does—amounting to charges that voters are so liable to be misled that the knowledge (as to amounts and sources of campaign contributions) must be kept from them."

The Democratic nominee then adds: "I insist that this is an insult to the intelligence of the voter, and it does little credit to Taft's judgment of men to whom he is making his appeal."

Answering Judge Taft's suggestion as to the publication of the campaign expenditures Bryan says:

Contributions vs. Expenditures.
"He fails to see the difference between election and the publication of expenditures after election. The publication of expenditures is required to show whether corrupt methods have been employed in the election and as expenditures continue up to the close of the polls, it would be impossible to make a complete publication until after the election."

"The publication of contributions ought to be before the election. The main reason for the publication of contributions before election is to show the public the source from which they come in order that the public may know which party the predatory interests are supporting."

"Every one who knows human nature knows that an element of gratitude must always be considered in human affairs. Ingratitude has been named as a worse sin than revenge, for ingratitude repays good with evil, while revenge only repays evil with evil."

Big Contributions Mean Mortgages.
"Every disinterested voter knows that large contributions have been used to secure mortgages upon officials. The publication of contributions throws a great deal more light upon influence at work in politics than the publication of expenditures. For the publication of contributions shows to whom the party is indebted and to whom repayment is likely to be made, while the publication of expenditures shows what has been paid out and disbursements do not create obligations that affect the course of the administration."

Bryan construes certain statements by Taft as meaning that he "will not object to contributions from trust magnates, railroad magnates and tariff beneficiaries, no matter how much those contributions may be, even though he may, if elected, be compelled to pass upon questions where their demands may be on one side and the interests of the general public on the other."

Common Sense on His Side.
He adds: "He must not complain if he finds that many Republicans of the rank and file will differ from him on this subject, for the average man will judge aspirants for office by the ideas applied to the average man. Common sense and universal judgment are against Taft's position and against arguments which he advances in its support."

After giving out his statement Bryan referred to Taft's statement that Thomas Ryan contributed $15,000 to the Nebraska campaign fund in 1904 and said:

"This has been denied, but I assume that he has taken the statements of some of his Republican advisers without taking time to verify those statements. Ryan did not contribute any money to the Nebraska campaign fund. The national committee contributed $15,000 in 1904, and the members of the national committee who had charge of the fund, have stated that the contribution was made from the general fund and was not contributed by any one for the purpose of being sent to Nebraska."

THE OHIO VALLEY IMPROVEMENT ASSO- CIATION OCTOBER 22

At this season of the year with navigation practically suspended on the Ohio river the fourteenth annual convention of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, which will be held in Louisville, October 22, looms up as important. The vital importance of canalization of the Ohio river to a one-foot stage the year around is emphasized. In his speech at the dollar dinner of the Commercial club Secretary Saunders Fowler gave interesting figures showing the relative importance of Paducah in river shipping. Senator Knox has interesting data collected of the improvement.

In his memorable address before the Chamber of Commerce at Pittsburgh, Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, conclusively exhibited the difference in progress between cities with adequate facilities for transportation by water and cities whose facilities for water transportation were inadequate. The difference was all the more marked because of the fact that the two classes of cities were under one and the same government, with the government extending its generous aid to one class and withholding it from the other.

The cities cited by Senator Knox were Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, Detroit, Milwaukee, Toledo, and Duluth—eight cities having a combined population of 711,838 in 1870, and of 2,211,273 in 1900, a period of twenty years. The other cities were St. Louis, Cincinnati, New Orleans, Louisville, Kansas City, Evansville, and Wheeling. In 1870 the combined population of the eight was 902,870. In 1900 it was 1,756,932. There is no good reason so far as industrial and commercial reasons, climate, location and other reasonable elements are considered, why the eight cities first named should have had less population than the other cities in 1870 and three times the population twenty years later—in 1900—but there is a reason nevertheless.

Between 1870 and 1900 the government of the United States improved the lake channels and deepened and improved the harbors of eight lake cities and neglected the rivers on whose banks the other eight cities were located and, as Senator Knox admirably put it: "The fact that the lake channels have been improved to a continuous depth of twenty-two feet and a large share of the harbors deepened proportionately, compared to the interruptions and the limitations of imperfectly improved rivers, establishes a conclusion on which, once seen, cannot be ignored."

It is a conclusion that is irresistible. There is no reason why there should be improvement of one channel of waterway transportation to the neglect of another like channel of equal if not greater importance, for it is inevitable that the one great feeder to the Panama Canal will be the Ohio river. That is a fact which must be conceded in the light of the enormously rich and valuable resources of the Ohio Valley states. The Ohio Valley Improvement association is enlisted in the battle for the life of the Ohio and the life of the trade and commerce, industrial, agricultural and mining industries and on all communities in the Valley to send to the forthcoming Louisville convention of October 22 and 23, representatives and enthusiastic delegates to aid in the completion of the work of canalizing the great stream to a nine-foot stage from Pittsburgh to Cairo.

Beginning October 1, the Gregory Heights car will be discontinued except on pleasant Sundays for the reason that there is not sufficient patronage to warrant furnishing the service.

Bathing An Indian God.
Thousands of pilgrims from the various outlying villages and other parts of the floodgates districts poured in from an early hour in the morning to the temples of Jagernath.

The image of the god is placed on a conspicuous part of the temple, so that it can be viewed at an advantage by the immense crowd of pilgrims, and there is a certain fixed hour the bathing ceremony commences.

The most curious part of the festival is that water is not poured on the image of the god until a certain small bird is found sitting on the topmost banner of the temple. There is a popular belief that the bird comes from Puri, the famous place of Hindu pilgrimage, to Mahesh, on the day of this festival, and his very presence is an indication that the ceremony should commence. Immediately after the bath is over the bird disappears.—Calcutta Statesman.

BANKERS OPPOSE BRYAN'S SCHEME

cut away this safeguard of character abolishing the necessity for discrimination making one bank as good as another—the weaker at the expense of the stronger, is to weaken and dissipate one of the bulwarks of sound business and to endanger the whole commercial structure.

The argument may be condensed as follows:

The adoption of a plan for government guarantee of deposits, based upon a fund contributed through a tax upon all banks, would introduce into a great business of trust a principle fundamentally unsound and sure to be productive of disastrous effects in the future.

The method of building up deposits by conservative and capable management of the bank's affairs. A government guarantee of deposits would induce, unless, if not reckless liberalism in loans, rates of interest and other indulgences in order to win deposits, the conservatism, which characterizes present bank management, would no longer obtain.

A tax guaranteeing deposits would eventually be paid by the borrower. The number of banks in which loss to depositors ensues, amounts to a very small percentage. The very large percentage of people, who are not responsible, would have to pay the tax. It is a tax levied upon ability to compensate inefficiency.

Discrimination by depositors as to character of bankers now deters inefficient and dishonest people from engaging in the banking business. Under universal guarantee this restriction would be removed.

Because of the high character and ability of bankers at the present time losses are kept to a minimum figure. A great increase in speculative loans and resulting losses would necessarily follow the operation of universal guarantee of deposits.

The credit of a bank should be and is the result of long continued, assiduous application of conservative methods, ability, skill and earnest effort. Under government guarantee an attempt is made to create such credit instantaneously, which cannot be successfully accomplished, since it is violating all the natural rules of conservative procedure.

Banking failures would not be prevented by ultimate guarantee of deposits; such failures are the result of unwise investment and management. A guarantee plan would tend to increase, rather than to diminish, them.

It would not be prevented, as depositors would elect to take their deposits at once from threatened institutions, rather than to await ultimate payment by means of a guarantee fund.

In view of the prominence given to this question at the present time, we deem it important that the American Bankers' convention place itself on record in opposition.

Therefore, be it resolved, That the American Bankers' association is unanimously opposed to a system of government guarantee of deposits, believing that it is a social and fallacious from an economic standpoint, superfluous, pleasing, but full of consequences and that its tendency will be to lower the standard of banking ability and conservatism which has been maintained for nearly half a century, and which has resulted in a fractional minimum of loss in handling the enormous sums entrusted to the care of banking institutions in the United States during that period.

GALLANT LAD THE VICTOR.

Wins National Challenge Cup at Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 1.—Gallant Lad, the almost invincible bay of Lawrence Jones, of Louisville, won the national challenge cup class for grey horses, at the Louisville horse show, thereby giving the golden trophy into the permanent possession of Mr. Jones. It was his third win, he having been victorious in 1904 and 1905, but succumbing in 1906 to Lord Balti more, owned by C. W. Watson, and in 1907 to Hildred, Miss Emily Jones.

ford's great hackney mare. In order to win Gallant Lad was extended to the utmost, and had to beat Miss Emily Bedford's Hildred and her stablemate, Caynton Phillips; Bonoke and Indian, W. H. Moore's entries, and Sir James, driven by Alfred G. Vanderbilt. The contest was so close that a third judge had to be called in to cast the deciding vote.

Hildred won honors for Miss Bedford in an earlier class, when she defeated Sir James and Daisy Kate.

County Court Clerk.
The Sun is authorized to announce Hiram Smedley a candidate for reelection to the office of Clerk of the McCracken County Court subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Daily Thought.

Courage consists not in blindly overlooking danger, but in meeting it with the eyes open.—Richter.

In this campaign we certainly are being treated to an abundant reading of the "short and ugly" annals of the rich.

President Roosevelt's second series on "The Winning of the West" is quite as interesting and more widely read than his first.

Some people think that, although Governor Haskell, of Oklahoma, may not have found the original Aladdin's lamp, he has discovered the brand of oil it burned.

Tacked to the tail of the ticket, and representing only wards instead of the whole city, nothing short of a revival over attracts popular attention to the school board candidates chosen by parties.

That Mayfield Insurance order organizer, who was warned off from establishing a lodge in Calloway county, may console himself with the reflection that there are few preferred risks in Calloway county any more.

THE POWER OF PUBLIC OPINION.
When Senator J. H. Foraker declared that he was retained by the Standard Oil company as an attorney and his employment at that time was considered an honor rather than a disgrace, he argued that morals are not a matter of principle but of public opinion, and as long as no popular protest is forthcoming, a legislator may safely remain in the employ of concerns financially interested in legislation.

That is a view too many men take of public office—that it is not a sacred trust, a sacrifice freedom make to the cause of freedom; but an opportunity offered by free government, which they have earned by thrift and acumen, an opportunity to add to their income through the influence of the office. The popular storm, that forced the retirement of Governor Haskell and others from political committees, teach a lesson to politicians no more sternly than to the corrupt commercial interests with which they have become associated. Unfortunately it was once popular to hold these commercial magnates up as examples of industry to the young and to condemn the politicians who came under their sway.

Now we are showing these commercial plates that everything they touch is contaminated; that the politicians who associate with them are prejudged; that they are condemned by their fellowmen. It is just as important to make commercial respectability unpopular as to make political association with it impossible. Just now the rebater is an "ismach". May he continue such. The power of popular opinion is not altogether lost, even in the realms of high finance. No normal man ever has so much power or money that he does not covet the affection and approval of his kind.

POLITICS OF TODAY AND OF YESTERDAY.

The campaign is getting hot! Think so? Well, it's just as one compares things.
True, that was a hot exchange of shots that Hearst drew out in the Parker-Halley-Sibley-Haskell speech. It seemed like one of the pugilistic "battles royals," in which half a dozen fellows with gloves hammer away in indiscriminate at each other, the only object of anyone being just to hit someone, no matter who.

Only they all seem to have forgotten the gloves.

Can't tell who got the best of it: but bluffer? Not at all. Just think of the time when Jefferson, Franklin Clay, Webster and even Washington were charged with things that wouldn't go through the mails now in the ordinary course of political business. Several of these great statesmen were heelzabub, Antichrist, Machiavelli and a lot of horrid things—all the time. And men fought with fists and sometimes with more deadly weapons; and Hamilton had his private correspondence with a lady published and tortured into treason to his country, so that he felt obliged, in printed pamphlet, to point out the fact that the letters were just proof of infidelity to his wife. That's the sort of blither war they waged in politics in those days.

Why, even the younger ones of us may remember Cleveland's sad situation to his friends to "tell the truth"—though his closer friends he loved always that he was usually another's sin. And the altered day on the tombstone—or so alleged—a Maine churchyard, was proof of the stress of character-assassination in which both Blaine and Cleveland lived and ran for president.

And poor Hamilton was shot in a political duel, while Andrew Jackson went to Washington with notches on the grip of his long duelling pistol.

Oh, it's a great deal better, saner hummer life we live now. Why, I was not so long ago that Republican parents wanted their sons not to associate with Democrats, and a Republican was ostracized in Democratic neighborhoods. And now we whisper about at clubs to find out what Mr. A's politics may be, and nobod knows. The bitter partisanship is a thing of the past. Let it go. We can well afford to spare it. We are better off, while clinging to our opinions, to give others credit for honesty; and wishing to our common country well, and to smile when some political aviator tells us that the country will be ruined if B is elected. B is not going to ruin anything that doesn't need ruining—not wittingly.—Louisville Herald.

THE JOKESMITH.

A Twin Propeller.

"Taking Him into the Firm."

Showed Him the Coward.

H. W. Adair, the western detective, was speaking in Detroit the president's onslaught on the anarchists of Patterson. "I once had an experience with those chaps," he said. "In plain clothes I attended one of their meetings. The speaker said incendiary and terrible things. Finally he mentioned the police. 'Show me a policeman,' he shouted, 'and I'll show you a coward.' Somehow I couldn't stand that. I walked up to the platform and I shook my finger under the man's nose and said, 'I am a policeman.' 'Well, I,' he whispered nervously, 'am a coward. Now, please, please, go back to your seat again.'"

Chapter XXVI.

"WHO ARE YOU, JOHN ARMITAGE?"

THESE gentlemen doubtless wish to confer. Let them sequester themselves," and Armitage waved his hand to the line of empty sleeping rooms. "I believe Mr. Durand already knows the way about. He may wish to explore my quisk again," and Armitage bowed to the two men, who, with their wrists locked behind them and a strap linking them together, looked the least bit absurd.
"Now, Claiborne, that foolish Oscar as a first kid of some sort that he set out on a couple of weeks ago. He's out of his simple cell back there, and we'll clear up this mess in my honor. Take on the same side, at I believe they actually cracked a one this time."

He lay down on a long bench, and Claiborne cut off his coat.
"I'd like to lead a little private excursion for this," groined the officer. A little lower and it would have caught you in the heart."

"Don't be so afraid! I'm as sound as they. We have been down, and the letary is ours. The great fun is to me when the good Baron von Mar of sets here. If I were dying I love I could lead on for that."

"You're not going to die, thank God!" Armitage rejoined, "I don't think I'll get a minute more until I pack this tonight with cotton. I can't do any thing for that swarthy brute, but I'll do the best I can in the army, and he'll fix you up in a jiffy."

"That will do now. I must have on a set when our honored guests arrive, even if we wait one sleeveless. I must wait here, though it does seem a bit affected. Dig out the brass bottle from the cupboard there in the corner and then kindly brush my hair and straighten up the chairs a bit. On might even toss a stick on the fire. That potato sack you may care to keep as a souvenir."

"Be quiet now! Remember, you're my prisoner, Mr. Armitage."

"I am, I said! But I will wager ten ounces at Clarry's the baron will be glad to let me off."

He laughed softly and began repeating:
"Why, hear you, my masters, was it for me to kill the dear innocent? Should I turn upon the true prince? Why, then, knowest I am as valiant as Hercules, but I would rather, the lion will not touch the true prince. Instead is a great matter. I was a coward on instinct. I shall think the better of myself and then during my life I for a valiant lion and then for a true prince."

Claiborne forced him to lie down on the bench and threw a blanket over him and in a moment saw that he slept. In an inner room the voices of the prisoners occasionally rose shrilly as they debated their situation and prospects. Claiborne chewed a cigar and watched and waited. Armitage awakened suddenly, sat up and called to Claiborne, with a laugh:
"I had a perfectly lovely dream, old man. I dreamed that I saw the ensign of Austria-Hungary flying from the flagstaff of this shanty; and, by Jove, I'll take the hint! We owe it to the distinguished ambassador who now approaches to fly his colors over the front door. We ought to have a trumpet to herald his arrival, but the white and red ensign with the golden crown—its in the leather covered trunk in my room—the one with the most stunner labels on it. Go bring it, Claiborne, and we'll throw it to the free airs of Virginia. And be quick—they ought to be here by this time!"

He stood in the door and watched Claiborne haul up the flag, and he made a mockery of saluting it as it snatched on in the fresh morning air.

"The Port of Missing Men! It was designed to be extra-territorial, and there's no treason in hauling up an alien flag." And his high spirits returned, and he stalked back to the fireplace, chaffing Claiborne and warning him against ever again fighting under an unknown banner.

"Here they are," called Claiborne and dug open the door as Shirley, her father and Baron von Marhof rode up under the billowing ensign. Dick stepped out to meet them and answer their questions.

"Mr. Armitage is here. He has been hurt, and we have sent for a doctor, but"—and he looked at Shirley.

"If you will do me the honor to enter—all of you!" And Armitage came out quickly and smiled upon them.

"We had started off to look for Dick when we met your man," said Shirley, standing on the steps, with hand.

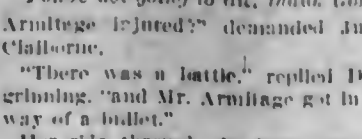

"What has happened, and how was Claiborne hauled up the flag."

"We had started off to look for Dick when we met your man," said Shirley, standing on the steps, with hand.

BRYAN HELD UP AS PERIL IN SPEECHES BY HUGHES.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 2.—The whirlwind political tour of Governor Charles R. Hughes, of New York, through West Virginia, beginning at Carlsburg and ending at Washington Junction, was marked by large crowds and much enthusiasm. United States Senator Nathan B. Scott and W. E. Glasscock, the Republican harmony program candidate for governor and Congressman William Hubbard were members of the party.

At Carlsburg and at Grafton Governor Hughes discussed Mr. Bryan's proposition for trust control by prohibiting any company from manufacturing and selling more than 50 per cent of the output. This scheme, Governor Hughes declared, was "impracticable, dangerous and a step toward bureaucratic government."

The Grafton crowd was composed largely of railroad men, and after discussing limited production Governor Hughes said:
"The question for labor is not what will happen in case of a charge of contempt of court but whether there will be opportunity to work; whether factories will be opened or closed; whether work will be on full time or on half time; whether business shall expand or whether it shall contract. The question for depositors in our banks is not whether we shall have a new fangled system of guaranteeing deposits but whether we shall have money to deposit. These are the questions in this campaign."

The largest crowd of the day greeted Governor Hughes at Martinsburg, W. Va. The governor paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Taft in reviewing his public record.

At Washington Junction there was time for but a few words. Governor Hughes prophesied Republican victory. "If we can bring the people to understand the issues and the conditions clearly."

TOBACCO NEWS

Association Sales.

The sales over the dark district at the ten markets of the Planters' Protective association show a decided falling off for the week ending September 19, in sales from the 112 market set by the preceding week, the sales for that week being only 412 hogheads. In the face of this decrease, however, it is thought that indications are for a heavier demand in the week Tandy & Fairleigh, its Italian Hagle buyers, showed much interest and Blacklock Bros., who are said to be buying for the British trade, made small purchases. All of this is regarded as a good omen. Although the sales of association tobacco are rather light each week and there yet remains a balance on hand of about 25,000 hogheads, the half year point has been passed and the remainder is slowly but steadily being disposed of, says the Hopkinsville News-Min.

The report of Auditor Scales for the week ending September 19 is as follows:

Markets	Sale	Week	Season
Springfield	61	1873
Clarksville	20	1792

Louisville Tobacco Market.
The offerings on the Louisville tobacco breaks follow: 1908 crop, burley 2; 1907 crop, burley, 106; dark 61; old crop, burley, 41; dark, 21. Total, 231. Rejections, yesterday, burley, 10; dark, 27. First sale tomorrow at the dark house.

The Louisville warehouse sold 12 hogheads of burley at $13.25 to $17, and 28 hogheads of dark at $7.50 to $11.75.

The Dark warehouse sold 29 hogheads of dark at $6.20 to $12.25.

The Central warehouse sold 19 hogheads of burley at $11.25 to $15.25, and 8 hogheads of dark at $5.20 to $8.15.

The Pickett warehouse sold 13 hogheads of burley at $10.50 to $21 and 11 hogheads of dark at $6.50 to $8.10.

NO FICTION IN G. O. P. CAMPS.

Hitcheck Says Report of Trouble Is Untrue.

New York, Oct. 2.—Chairman Hitcheck said in reply to a direct question as to the report from Washington that there was friction between the national and Republican congressional committees:
"There is nothing in that report to my knowledge. There has been no complaint made to me from Washington nor from the congressional committee. The committees are working in harmony."

McKinley Denies Report.

Pearce, Oct. 2.—Congressman McKinley, chairman of the congressional committee, denied that any friction exists between the Republican national committee and the congressional committee. "Both committees are working in harmony," he declared. "The conference which is being held in Washington is merely for the discussion of plans for the campaign."

—"HOSEA AND THE MONEY PANIC"

First of a series of timely sermons to be given in Grace Church.

Nothing could have been more timely than the action of the men of Grace church in arranging with the pastor for a series of special sermons for the Sunday nights of October.

Sunday night Dr. Wright will preach on "Hosea and the Money Panic"—the message of a prophet three thousand years dead to the men of today. Other sermons of the series will be such as "Trusts and Panics," "God in History," "The Bible," "There is no idea to enter into the discussion of any phase of politics, as such, but merely to show that the problem and questions facing us now for solution are as old as society, and were solved in principle at least thousands of years ago. Capital and labor, trusts, single tax, money, panics, taxation, imperialism, these and kindred present day questions were faced and answered by the prophets of the Old Testament. And these are the subjects of this very timely series of sermons.

D. A. R. Meeting.
The Paducah Daughters of the Revolution began their first session for the autumn this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Kittle Willis, 508 North Sixth street. Many were present, and the opening meeting was full of interest.

Open Meeting of the Woman's Club.
The first open meeting of the Woman's club was held yesterday afternoon at the club house and was largely attended. The meeting was in charge of the literary committee, of which Mrs. Muscoe Burnett is chairman. Mrs. J. A. Rudy, president of the club, spoke on the work of the club and the promise of the future. Reports from all departments were read, and it was shown that $240 extra beside the regular income had been collected during the summer. Mrs. John G. Miller was elected secretary for the winter, and the following new members were received: Mrs. James P. Smith, Mrs. John K. Hendrick, Mrs. D. E. Wilson, Mrs. C. G. Warner, Mrs. J. Dennis Moequet and Miss Ada Eaton.

Mrs. Susan Fossenden, of Boston, who attended the meeting of the Kentucky Woman's Christian Temperance Union, spoke on "Possibilities of the New Woman." Mrs. Fossenden's talk was appreciated. The development of the Short Story" was treated in splendid style by Mrs. Charles Turner, who emphasized points in her paper by clever stories. Following the address, Miss Anna Webb told a quaint love story and Miss Dow Hubbard's responded with the "Modern Love Story Character at a Glance." Mrs. J. C. Flournoy told a child's story and she was followed by Dr. I. R. Howell, who told a humorous story.

"Iskoodah's" Staff.

The staff of "The Iskoodah" was announced yesterday afternoon by Prof. W. H. Suez, principal of the High school. The first meeting of the staff will be held this afternoon for the purpose of considering the first issue of the paper, which will be issued on November 1. The paper will be issued on a higher standard than ever this year, and the staff promises to make it a bright, breezy little paper full of high school news. The editors are: Editor-in-chief, Alvin D. Foster; associate editors, Chas. Smith, Julia Dahney, Lucy Belle Scott; business manager, Edward Mitchell; assistant managers, John Black, George Kewlough; circulation manager, Fred Foster; exchange editor, Theodor Packert; literary editor, Irma Yelzer; music and dramatic editor, Margarette Carnagey; athletic editors, Sarah Corbett and William Wilhelm; local editor, Rebecca Smith.

Pastor Surprised.

The Rev. L. G. Graham, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, and his estimable wife were surprised last night by an unexpected visit from the members of their church who descended upon the parsonage on Sixth street laden with packages of all sizes and descriptions, bent upon giving their pastor a donation party, says the Calvary Bulletin.

A teachers' meeting had been announced to be held at the parsonage and several teachers arrived at the hour named, the remainder of the party assembling at the church. Shortly after 8 o'clock the crowd, numbering between 50 and 60 persons, went to the pastor's home. The host and hostess were completely surprised but gave a hearty welcome to their flock and soon the house was merry with general sociability. Ice cream and cake, which the guests had remembered to bring, was served.

The pantry shelves were laden heavily with the groceries, fruit and vegetables which the "donators" bestowed upon the host and hostess.

Kalopsophic Club.

The Kalopsophic club held the first meeting of the new year this morning at the Woman's club. The members are studying this year and have a very attractive program of work planned.

LAUNCH NEW CANAL SCHEME.

Connect Lakes Michigan and Huron at Grand Haven.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 2.—To project a canal to connect Lakes Michigan and Huron at Grand Haven and Saginaw, the Grand-Saginaw Valley Deep Water association has been organized by delegates from six cities along the route of the proposed water way.

Delegates were appointed to attend the convention of the National Deep Waterways association in Chicago next week and plans were discussed as to how best to further the plan of a deep canal across the state, making use of the valleys of the Grand and Saginaw rivers.

The following delegates were appointed: H. W. Hubbard, Saginaw; H. G. Corvill, Cheaning; Willis Miller, Cheaning; Charles Kerr, Ashby; and N. Robbins, Grand Haven.

SHE LIVED FOR AID ALONE.

Allice McGowan Cook's Husband Therefore Gets Divorce.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 2.—By a decree handed down in the local divorce court, Allice McGowan Cook, the authoress, who once told her husband she was "in love with art and that alone," is now a free woman.

William Cook, of Baltimore, a former publisher of this city, was granted a free and absolute divorce on the ground of desertion. Mrs. Cook was not present and made no attempt to contest the case.

Mexico's New Discoveries.

The geographical commission appointed seven years ago to map the townships of Mexico has reported the discovery of 7,679 towns which were not officially known to exist and were subject to no federal control. While some of these places range from 5,000 to 10,000 population, most of them are presumably small villages.

A Mexican hill village, few of whose people can read or write, might easily exist for years happily unconscious that it was living under any government at all. A mule path over a pass connects the village safely with the outside world. The sun shines, the crops grow, wants are few, the old Indian tribal customs furnish all the needed law, and having no history, the land is happy.

There are disadvantages in being named catalogued and put on the map. These 7,679 little towns will now be invaded by drummers, photographers, fancy waistcoats, automobiles, lawyers, corn doctors, book agents, Salome dancers, peany ardent, handbooks on etiquette and politics, and there will be no place left where the simple life may be led. These geographers have much to answer for—New York World.

Plague in Ecuador.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Oct. 2.—The bubonic plague has made its reappearance in Guayaquil, and there are at the present time three cases. During the month of September six new cases of the plague were recorded here, and there were three deaths. Eight patients were discharged cured. Six cases of the plague are reported at Ibaboye.

NEWS OF COURTS

Circuit Court.

A short session of circuit court was held today, though a large amount of business was transacted. The extra juryman was dismissed at noon until tomorrow morning when the docket will again be taken up.

Jack Shouse, colored, was tried on a charge of cutting in sudden heat and passion and fined $50.

The jury in the case of Herbert Nicholson, charged with forgery, has been out for several hours and it is likely a hung jury will result.

Court Matters.

The charge against Eliza Harris of converting money of another to her own use was continued until the next term of court. The charge was brought by Nan Grogan, a negro fortune teller, who claims that she gave the Harris woman $125 to deposit in a bank, which she failed to do, but used the money for her own benefit.

The charge of grand larceny against Frank Grundy was reset for the ninth day of the present term of court.

Jim Taylor and Ned Farris, charged with converting money of another to their own use, were sentenced to one month in jail.

Hud Kibbler, charged with malicious shooting, failed to answer when called and his recognizance was ordered forfeited and a bench warrant issued.

The grand jury returned three indictments this morning. Annie Hower was charged with petit larceny; Erast Hahl with housebreaking, and Walter Richardson with detaining a woman. All the defendants are colored and are confined in jail.

The decision of the court of appeals, granting a new trial to Will Hamilton, sentenced at the last term of circuit court, for malicious cutting with intent to kill, was received and filed. Hamilton is in jail unable to give bond but the case will not stand for retrial at the present term of court.

Nelson Grover Burns was admitted to practice at the Paducah bar on motion of Attorney John G. Miller Sr.

Marriage Licenses.

H. B. Ragsdale and R. A. Rambo.

In Police Court.

The docket in police court this morning was: Drunk—Harvey Nelly, $1 and costs. Flourishing a pistol—Jim Hall, a half-breed Indian, $50 and costs. Carrying a pistol concealed—Jim Hall, $10 and costs and thirty days in the county jail.

LEARNED, BUT POOR AS RAIDER.

Book Worm Surprises Club Members By Story on Himself.

The man of learning stole into his club at about 11 a. m.

"It's a strange thing," he told the members present, "but I was shaved this morning by a man who really is, I suppose, a little above the ordinary barber. I know, for instance, that he took a double first-class at Oxford, and cut the length at Heidelberg abroad, and spent several years in other foreign educational centers. He has also contributed scientific articles to our best magazines, and has numbered among his intimate friends men of the highest social standing. And yet," exclaimed the savant, "he can't shave a man decently."

"By Jove!" exclaimed the younger members in astonishment. "But with all these accomplishments, what is he a barber for?"

"Oh, he isn't a barber!" said the bookworm, smiling. "I shaved myself this morning!"

Experts for African Trip.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—Two taxidermists from the National Museum will be detailed to accompany President Roosevelt on his hunting trip in Africa. The president has notified the officers of the museum that he will send back such of the specimens as they may wish to preserve. No other persons from this country will accompany the president, and so, hunters, trappers, etc., are daily volunteering their services. The caravan will be made up and mustered when the president reaches the African coast. The report that Mr. Roosevelt will be entertained by the sultan of Zanzibar is untrue. The party will not go near the sultan's islands.

Host Ban Stirs Gibbons.

Queenstown, Oct. 2.—Cardinal Gibbons arrived here from London. He will be the guest of the bishop of Cloyne until tomorrow, when he will embark on the steamer Carolina for New York. The cardinal said he felt there would be no objection in the United States such as was raised in London, to the carrying of the sacred host through the streets. Common sense, he continued, should cause the respect of the statute which prevented the procession as planned in England. Catholics would not be afraid to hold a procession of the blessed sacrament in New York, Boston, Philadelphia or Chicago, he asserted.

Empress in an X-Ray Test.

Romblint, Prussia, Oct. 2.—The German empress was the subject of an interesting experiment with Roentgen rays at the Stilleknehen hospital here. The empress and empress have presented this institution with a complete Roentgen ray installation. When they visited the hospital the empress expressed a desire to witness the workings of the apparatus and at the suggestion of the physician in charge she submitted her hand and was enabled to see the bones through the flesh.

NINE ELEPHANTS TO A MAN.

Huge Bag Made By Nine Dutch Hunters In South Africa.

To secure a bag of eighty-one elephants in these prosaic days will seem like a dream to most sportsmen, but the feat has just been accomplished by J. W. Viljoen and eight other Dutch farmers in the Lomangundi district. The government has just thrown the district open for the destruction of elephants, and this enormous bag was made within sixty miles of the capital of Rhodesia, and near the railway.

Viljoen and his party pitched their camp at Maquadi, the center of the elephant district, and divided up into pairs—a fact which nearly led to a fatality, for, going through the bush Viljoen encountered his first elephant, which he shot. As this fell another one crashed through the trees at the back of the hunter and pursued him once striking the horse with his trunk, until Viljoen succeeded in reaching clearer ground, where he found himself thirty yards ahead of his pursuer. Slipping off his horse, he fired at the elephant, and killing it.

One incident marred the sport, and that was the accidental shooting of a member of the party named "Eoff" Elff and three companions paired off and walked at a distance of about fifty yards apart, when Elff and his friend suddenly saw two elephants. They fired, but only succeeded in shooting off a tusk of one of the animals, who promptly charged them. Eoff made in the direction of the men in front of him, and they, seeing the beast crashing through the bush behind them, and ignorant of Eoff's whereabouts, fired at the elephant, and while one bullet dispatched the elephant, the other found a billet in Eoff's neck, killing him instantly.

The party came back to the Transvaal the richer for 2,000 pounds of ivory and seven young elephants. The first one was captured when half-grown. It was feeding with four grown elephants, all of which were shot, and then the little one, instead of running away, made for the hunters, two of whom seized its tail, while the two others lunged on to each ear, and there was a tussle for half an hour, after which the elephant was rolled on its back and its feet tied with the horse's reins. It was then fastened to a tree, and the next day driven into camp. After a day or two it became so docile that its attentions were rather a nuisance, for it tried to tread on the hunters' toes, helped itself to all the available food, and would put its trunk into the cooking pots and take out anything it fancied, while it would follow the natives down to the stream for a drink.

On the record day twenty elephants were shot and two little ones captured. Viljoen's unaided efforts accounted for eighteen of the twenty slain. These two elephants speedily became docile, and now that all the captives are in a proper kraal they have become quite acclimated to their new surroundings and are both playful and friendly.—Rhodesia Herald Weekly.

The New Wood Yard is Ready For Business.

We have our portable wood sawing machine in operation and are now prepared to furnish any amount of oak wood (good wood). We are cutting it 12 to 16 inches long, but will cut special lengths to suit customers.

We opened a wood yard in connection with our coal business in order to furnish our men steady employment, as every man given employment at this time helps improve business conditions and hastens the return of prosperity.

Then Paducah needs a first-class wood yard, and if the people will patronize us we will guarantee them an up-to-date yard, where they can get oak wood and heating wood any time during the year. We will also have loose and banded kindling and will be in position to furnish mixed loads—part wood and part kindling.

It is not our desire or intention to run or take away from any person running a wood wagon their business, but will endeavor to make their business more secure by selling their wood at our yard to fill their orders.

We have the wood to sell and will deliver it to you or you can send a wagon to our yard for it.

It is not necessary now for you to purchase a large quantity at a time, as you can buy our load at a time from us and depend on getting it when you want it.

One-horse load Oak, Stove or Heating Wood, per cord, delivered, $1.00.
Two-horse load Oak Stove wood, $1.50.
Two-horse load Heating Wood, $1.25.
Oak Stove Wood, per cord, delivered, $1.50.

Oak Heating Wood, per cord, delivered, $1.25.
On yard, 25 cents per cord less.

Remember, we are headquarters for "Peerless" Kentucky Coal. And we have the genuine Pittsburgh, too, which we are still selling at reduced prices.

DIGGING CANAL BIG PROBLEM

How Uncle Sam Feeds and Houses Workers.

Isthmus Now Most Cosmopolitan
Place in World—Twenty-Five
American Hotels There.

The housing and feeding of from 40,000 to 50,000 men is no small task, but Uncle Sam is doing this on the Isthmus, notwithstanding the fact that all supplies have to come from the United States, writes a Colon (Canal Zone) correspondent of the Minneapolis Journal.

The total force of unskilled laborers of the Isthmian Canal commission and Panama railway at the present time is about 40,000. During the period from June 1, 1906 to June 1, 1907, about 20,000 laborers were brought to the Isthmus from the United States, Europe and the West Indies.

The labor problem is still an unsolved one, but experiments of the past year with a diversity of races and nationalities have improved the efficiency of the force and promise to make the term of service longer.

Tropical labor is migratory and notwithstanding superior wages, housing and subsistence there will always be large periodical changes in the individual force. A regular re-organizing organization changed from one labor center to another will be necessary to keep a maximum force available.

The Isthmus at the present time is the most cosmopolitan country in the world. You can hear the babble of all tongues, and it is safe to say that over fifty nationalities make up the unskilled labor force employed on the canal.

There are at the present time about twenty-five hotels in operation for the white Americans, where a good substantial meal may be obtained for 30 cents. The Americans are all furnished free quarters, and a great many have married quarters, although the requests for the latter far exceed the supply.

The houses are built about two stories high and each has a front and back porch, which are screened in.

There are at the present time about 5,000 houses available for quartering European and West Indian laborers. These houses are built one story high and the doors and windows are covered with screening. The congestion in the quarters of the common labor has entirely disappeared, due to two causes, first, the completion of a great many houses during the past year, and, second, the fact that with improvements in efficiency it is not necessary to house as large a force.

About twenty mess halls are operated for the Europeans where a day's board is furnished for 40 cents. The stewards and cooks at these messes are usually Europeans and a meal peculiar to the tastes of the men heading there is served.

There are in operation about twenty-five kitchens for the West Indian laborers, where a day's board is furnished for 30 cents and is made up of such food supplies as they are most accustomed to and prepared by cooks of their own country. The common laborer of the West Indies is employed upon the basis of subsistence being part of his compensation. This was found advisable on account of his careless habits and the fact that insufficient nourishment limited his efficiency.

When the Americans first took charge of the work on the Isthmus it was hard to get any kind of labor, hence the West Indian negro was imported. They are paid from 30 cents to $1.25 a day, and from this is deducted 30 cents for their board. He is given a place to sleep without any extra charge. He is given a good dry place to sleep and three good, substantial meals a day, and this is more than he gets in his tropical West India home.

Now, in Jamaica, they carry everything on their heads, and when the Americans first took charge of the work on the Isthmus a number of West Indian negroes were set to work grading the streets. In those days wheelbarrows were used for this purpose. The negro would load his barrow up with dirt and wheel it over to the dumping place, but they had hard work to prevent him from holding the empty barrow on his head and carrying it back, instead of wheeling it.

The Jamaica negro furnishes a majority of the laborers on the Isthmus. He calls himself a "British object," meaning subject.

When they are put to work they are given a ticket for their sleeping quarters. These are renewed once or twice a month. The police make a raid through their sleeping quarters occasionally and those who have no tickets are taken to jail. This is to save the Isthmian Canal commission from housing all the negroes on the Isthmus.

Across the Hills.
A little valley round me lies
Circled about by silent hills;
Above it sweep the silent skies.

In spring it is all daffodils—
In summer the sweetbrier grows—
For those who seek; then, wistful days,
Softly through autumn, till the snows
Lie white on all the quiet ways.

The many, many ways that wind
Their many paths the valley through!
I cannot trace them to the end—
They stretch a little space in view
And then (ah, some are rough to tread)
But some all gently travel on
With sunlight shining overhead.

They climb the hill crest and are gone.
And by these roads, day after day,
My friends and fellows, one by one
With eyes far-searching, far away,
So shall I do as they have done—
Some day, with swift or faltering pace
And one look backward, long and fond.

And one look backward, long and fond.
Shall climb the encircling hills, and face
The great Beyond—the great Beyond!

NEW SKIN REMEDY STOPS ITCHING.

Skin Troubles of Infants and Adults
Quickly Cured.

When it is known that possum, the new skin remedy, will stop the torturous itching attending eczema with first application and bring immediate relief and comfort to sufferers from all skin troubles, its merit will be instantly appreciated. On the tender skin of chafing infants, possum may be used with soothing and beneficial effects. It is applied externally, and its remarkable healing power begins their work at once.

All skin diseases, including eczema, acne, herpes, rash, tetter, etc., yield readily to its remarkable curative properties. Occasional applications of possum, in small quantities, will quickly banish pimples, hives, blackheads, blotches, and will relieve and cure itching feet, eczema, humors, etc. A special 50-cent package has been adopted for those who use possum for these minor troubles. This, as well as the regular two-dollar jar, is on sale at Gilbert's and other leading drug stores in Paducah.

An experimental supply of possum may be obtained free of charge by writing to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

paired his usefulness as a laborer and sooner or later landed him in the hospital.

The messes and kitchens are inspected daily by the supervising employees of the department of labor, quarters and subsistence and weekly by the district physician.

All meats, vegetables and food supplies are carefully inspected before they are used.

The United States Steamship company has a contract for furnishing the Isthmian Canal commission with all of the vegetables, meats, etc. A fresh supply is received once a week.

Plenty of Ice.
The Isthmian Canal commission operates stores at all of the principal towns along the line. At Cristobal they have a wholesale department, where an available supply of all goods is kept. At Cristobal the commission operates a large bakery, a modern steam laundry and an ice and cold storage plant. More than fifty tons of ice is manufactured daily at the ice plant.

A supply train is sent over the line each day and the hotels along the line receive a supply of ice, vegetables, meats etc., each day.

The water question has been a difficult one for the commission to solve, and water is piped for several miles to supply some of the towns. All the drinking water is filtered. Water coolers are furnished the quarters by the commission, and as ice can be obtained very reasonably, most of the employees have ice water in their rooms.

When the Americans first took charge of the work on the Isthmus it was hard to get any kind of labor, hence the West Indian negro was imported. They are paid from 30 cents to $1.25 a day, and from this is deducted 30 cents for their board. He is given a place to sleep without any extra charge. TAFT'S TOUR WINS NEBRASKA VOTERS

Candidate is Received With Great Enthusiasm.

Leaders Say Republicans Will Carry
State By Plurality of 12,000, to 25,000.

HE SPEAKS IN MANY TOWNS.

Raymond says in the Chicago Tribune: Mr. Taft's invasion of Mr. Bryan's home state has been a smashing success from the start. Leaving Sioux City the train has swept southward through the splendid farming lands of eastern Nebraska, winding up here at Lincoln early in the afternoon for a strenuous program in the home town of the Democratic candidate.

No one who looked over the crowds which greeted Mr. Taft during the two-minute stops at Emerson, Wakefield, Wayne, Norfolk, Stanton, West Point, Scribner, Fremont and Wahoo can have any doubt as to the temper of rural Nebraska. There are plenty of Bryan men in that section, of course, but the people who came down to the train to see the Republican presidential candidate were numerous enough and enthusiastic enough to satisfy the most exacting critic.

Claims State for Taft.
Looking out from the train as we sped along over the miles upon miles of wheat, corn and hay fields, and calling to mind the enormous value of the agricultural products of Nebraska, it was easy to believe the statements of Senators Burkett and Brown, Gov. Sheldon, State Chairman Keifer, National Committeeman Rose and other Nebraska leaders, that the state would surely deliver its electoral vote to Taft in November, and that the one great issue which would decide would be the extraordinary prosperity of the people.

That they are prosperous any one can see at a glance. The crowds at the stations were all good natured, well dressed and manifestly possessed of their full share of this world's goods. There are automobiles at the country stations now where I remember seeing broken down wagons in 1896. Thousands upon thousands of acres are being cultivated today which lay neglected in 1896, because the prices then obtainable did not pay for the cost of turning up the ground.

Here in Lincoln the demonstration for the Republican candidate has been an extraordinary one. The Nebraska people have not spared Mr. Taft in an effort to burn up the city with Republican enthusiasm and he has been busy every moment of the time since he struck the capital of Nebraska, doing a diversified act in the campaign here, intended to reach many different classes.

Taft Speaks to Railroad Men.
The city has been ablaze with the usual decorations, fireworks, brass bands and noisy crowds, but best of all have been the meetings themselves. In the first place, immediately upon his arrival the train was switched out to the railroad men's center at Havlock and there from the rear platform of his train, Mr. Taft spoke to just such an audience as any candidate would like to meet.

They were all railroad men called from work in the shops and round-houses, and they were not particularly enthusiastic. They were of the intelligent class of American working-men who want to be convinced, who have a certain prejudice against the man talking to them, but who are so fair they are willing to hear both sides.

Mr. Taft, after being introduced by a real railroad man with his characteristic cap and his grimy jumpers, immediately launched into a plain, straightforward, and entirely manly defense of his attitude in the labor decisions he made when Judge. He went over the points briefly, but made a hit when he declared that T. M. Arthur and other great labor leaders had accepted his decision, and had successfully used the Taft judgment in defending themselves against the Gould system in the St. Louis cases.

Will Divide Labor Vote.
How much of an impression Mr. Taft made on the men he spoke to Estimates of Plurality.

The Nebraska leaders with whom I talked vary in their estimates of the Republican majority from 12,000 to 25,000. Gov. Sheldon put the figure at 13,000, State Chairman Keifer estimates from 12,000 to 18,000, and Senator Burkett wants to see 20,000.

It Can't Be Beat.
The best of all teachers is experience. C. M. Harden, of Silver City, North Carolina, says: "I find Electric Bitters does all that's claimed for it. For stomach, liver and kidney troubles it can't be beat. I have tried it and find it a most excellent medicine." Mr. Harden is right; it's the best of all medicines also for weakness, lame back and all run down conditions. Best too for chills and malaria. Sold under guarantee at all druggists, 50c.

Used Canceled Stamps.
Covington, Ky., Oct. 1.—James R. Taylor, a mail carrier in Newport for fifteen years, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Menzies charged with placing three two-cent canceled postage stamps on envelopes, which he had been directed to mail by persons on his route. Taylor waived examination and was bound over to the federal grand jury in the sum of $5,000.

Best the World Affords.
"It gives me unbounded pleasure to recommend Bucklen's Arnica Salve," says J. W. Jenkins, of Chapel Hill, N. C. "I am convinced it's the best salve the world affords. It cured a felon on my thumb, and it never fails to heal every sore, burn or wound to which it is applied. 25c at all druggists."

Washington, D. C.—Lists of ten railroads and five shippers indicted for receiving rebates, with several traffic officials indicted and corporations convicted of giving or receiving rebates not during this year are embodied in a letter received by President Roosevelt and made public by him. The letter is from Attorney John H. Marble of the interstate commerce commission, pointing out to the president that the latter in his reply to William J. Bryan, issued last Sunday, did not include the work of the year 1908 in the mention of prosecutions under the interstate commerce law and saying the facts are even more impressive than the reply shows. The letter says:

"So far as reports received by the division of prosecutions of this commission indicate indictments for rebating have been found against railroad companies during the present year as follows:

Southern Pacific company, Northern district of California, three indictments.

Southern Pacific company, Southern district of California, three indictments.

Chesapeake and Ohio railway, Eastern district of Virginia, three indictments.

HOW LONG CAN HE KEEP IT UP?

CHANLER ACCEPTS

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE CAUSES A SENSATION.

When He Slaps Tammany Leader in Speech of Acceptance—Gives Roosevelt Dig.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 2.

Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler was officially notified at his home in Harrison town of his nomination for governor by the Democratic state convention. The speech of notification was by Alton B. Parker. Chanler in his acceptance said that "the people cannot rule in nation or state so long as the power and patronage of the presidency are successfully expected to control the deliberations of the state and national conventions and to decide who shall be selected for the presidency and the governorship."

Chanler caused a decided stir among his hearers by prefacing his speech with the statement that State Chairman Connors "betrayed confidence." If attempted in an interview given out yesterday to dictate what the policy of the Democratic party in the coming campaign in New York should be, and he emphasized further along in his prepared speech the statement that "from all hampering obligations of every kind, I shall know no master but the people's will and the people's interest."

Connors sat just behind Chanler during the speech, with Charles P. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, and other representatives of New York City and Brooklyn Democratic organizations. He arrived just before the exercises began. With the others, he left immediately after the conclusion. There was no consultation of these leaders by Chanler.

LIFED AND KILLED.

Mr. Carmel Mother and Son Are Arrested on Charge.

Mount Carmel, Ill., Oct. 2.—A sensation was created here by the arrest of Mrs. Lib Lucas, aged 50, and her son, Jesse James Lucas, aged 21, for the murder of Clyde Showalter over two years ago.

Showalter, a young farmer, went to Mount Carmel, drew $200 from the bank and disappeared. His body was found in a stream on the Indiana side of the line six months later. All efforts to ascertain the circumstances of his death failed until four months ago, when a youth in the Pontiac reformitory "peached" and since then officers have obtained evidence leading to the arrests.

WILD HOG

CAPTURED BY W. M. PUCKETT NEAR CANTON.

The Animal Weighed Over Five Hundred Pounds and Had Very Long Tusks.

W. M. Puckett, who lives about four miles from Canton near the Saline River Springs, says the Cadiz Record, captured a wild hog in his cornfield a few days ago that would have weighed over 500 pounds. For a month or more something had been eating and tearing down his corn, and Mr. Puckett made diligent search over the entire field time and time again but could find nothing. Several nights he watched the field, thinking possibly someone was turning his hog in the field at night and getting them out early the next morning, but he could find no clue as to what was tearing down his corn. Finally a neighbor suggested that it was a wild hog, and for him to go to the thickest brush patch in the field and he would find him burrowed down in the ground. Mr. Puckett did this, and to his surprise found this large hog in its bed, which it had rooted out some two and a half to three feet deep in the ground.

He summoned a number of neighbors and with the assistance of several dogs they hunted it in the corner of the brush patch and succeeded in getting a rope around its neck and then bound its feet and put it on a slide and carried it to the house, but before they could get a pen built the hog died from exhaustion. Its tusks measured four and one-half inches long, and every indication was that it was from 12 to 14 years old. It killed one of the dogs in the capture and wounded several of the others, and came very near getting one of the men.

Mr. Puckett, who is one of the most reliable citizens, says that for the past four years something has been tearing down and eating the corn in this field, but they had been unable to discover what it was until this time. The season when this hog was caught is very tough and hilly.

EDUCATION AGAINST PLAGUE

German Scientists Say Best Way to Prevent Tuberculosis.

Washington, Oct. 2.—"Of more importance than any other feature in the crusade against the scourge of the white plague is the campaign of education," This emphatic declaration was made by Dr. Koch, eminent German scientist, who again figured prominently in the controversial discussion of tuberculosis before the international congress. This utterance was made just after a report had been submitted by Dr. Heron, delegate from the Royal Society of Medicine, London, on the "teaching of Star."

"So you don't care for society," "I shouldn't say that," answered Mr. Koch, in his comment on the report, regretted that thus far most educational efforts in the campaign to stamp out tuberculosis has been confined to adults. He emphasized the importance of teaching hygiene to children, because, he said, they are quicker to learn hygienic laws than are adults.

LAST CHANCE!

Below is what the coal mine operators and railroad companies tell us: Car famine, demand for coal, low stocks, hard winter expected. Advice from fourteen coal mine operators already that they will advance the price of coal from one to two cents per bushel the first of October. All other coal mine operators will follow, as they have always done before. Only one more week to get your order in on present prices. This is not to frighten the public, but to advise our customers.

BRADLEY BROS.

The inexperienced "scoop shovel" man is here today and yonder tomorrow, and a bad proposition on a cold winter's morning.
